Washington Sees War Crisis in British Trade Conference

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.-France will seize the grunt German port of Hamburg to force Germany to deliver the former crown prince, accordi to an official report which reached informed dislumatic quarters here today.

This information, which is understood to reflect directly the attitude of Premier Poincare of France, was to the effeet that if the support of Houston, was declared the Great Britain cannot be obtained to such drastle action against ate shipper's estate amounting to Germany. France will proceed alone, Claims Report Confirmed.

The report today brought the first confirmation on official authority of the rumor circulated in Europe that France was planning the drastic move of seizing Hamburg. Washington has been aston at this news. Some diple circles here have expressed the belief that with the solzure of

A PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT

To The American People:

As President of the United States of America and as President of the American National Red Cross, I bereby designate Nov. 11, Armstee Day, to Nov. 29, as the period for the Annual Red Cross Membership Roll Call.

During the world war the volunteer effort of the American people to assist the Government in providing for the welfare of our military and naval forces at home, on the seas and overseas, was expressed largely through the Red Cross, which also rendered incalsulable assistance to the armed forces of our associates in the war and to their civilian population within the invaded areas during and

The recent calamity which befell Japan when millions of her people suffered dire distress following the earthquake has served again to reveal to the people of the nation the readiness of the American Red Cross to respond immediately for service in a great emergency and to apply the generous gifts of our people to the smelter; tien of human suffering. In rendering assistance wherever duty calls, the American Red Cross in addition to its work in foreign lands administers relief in times of distress in our own country. heips to solve the problem of public health, is ever active in other humanitarien projects, and, above all renders welcome assistance to the Government in the cure of our disabled veterans of the World War,

Torough its sharter granted by Congress, the American Red Close i- charged with specific duties in relationship with the army and navy and with the people at large in periods of emergency and distress, and it has never filled to perform those duties. Since the war, and as a result of experience acquired in the war it has expanded its welfare operations in all regions of our country.

The Red Cross seeks only to serve, not to usurp the prerogatives of other institutions or governmental authorities, but to co-operate with all others in service to humanity.

It is upon popular membership that the American Red Cross relies for its strength of organization and for funds to carry on its work which is so essential to the good of our country, and it is a privilege to our people to hold membership in and have a part in the work of this truly American organization. I therefore urge a rememal of all present membership and enlistment in the American Red Cross by all not now members, (Signed)

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

EROTIC LITERATURE AND THE GOULDS

Count Boni de Castellaine wooed and won na Gould, the richest American heiress of decades age. She was the daughter of Gould, the famous wisard of the rail and founder of the Gould fortune. The Count was a broken French adventurer, with a record meavory as that of an outlawed tomeat on a back-varil fence.

He was a spendthrift, a gambler, a roue, a shining light in both the upper world and the under world of Paris, the gayest capital of all the cities of civilization. After a spectacular married life, Anna Gould divorced the Count and led to the alter Prince De Sagan, a first consin of the graceless scamp who first won her heart and her share of the Gould million. This second marriage "tuk," as they say out west, and the American-born princess has been happy ever since.

At fifty the Count Boni de Castellaine is as brazen as he was at twenty-five and as rotten in ideals as a Paris Apache. He is giving to the reading world a story of his unblushing amours which reek with the filth of his own mind and betray in every line the moral rotteness of this sprig, of nobility whose family tree began to sprout a thousand years ago.

These memoirs of the Count, declared by the writer to be a detailed story of the women he loved and conquered or loved and lost, should be christened, "The Confessions of a Male Harlot." They may be rich as a pile of fertilizer is rich; they may be racy to those who love erotic literature; they are rotten and should appeal to those who love rotten pabehim which stinketh the mind.

This count of France should have died immediately following birth. He has lived a long life and according to his own admissions he has lived it disgustingly without once having added a spec of luster to a noble lineage or a harel to an honored name. And this reminds the writer that George Gould's bones are to be dragged from the coffin and his handling of the Gould fortune to be aired in the courts of New York by the Princess De Sagan and other members of the Gould family.

George Gould was made the principal trustee of the huge fortune accumulated by his father who is said to have started on his business career as the seller of a patent mouse trap. Now the princess and the other members of the Gould family allege that the dead brother in his busy life time robbed the estate of twenty million dellars and they ask for judgment for a like amount.

Should they win this suit and recover the twenty million dollars, the second wife of George Gould and their three children will be penniless as it will take away from the widow and her children the five million dollars bequeathed to them by George Gould before he passed on to that land invisible, beyond the

When he died he left behind him the Gould system of railways. He dreamed that the system that he had created or welded would last forever. He dreamed that the Gould totune would never fade and never be dissipated. Well, the Gould system is a memory, and Jay Gould is a memory.

Secretary Andrew W. Mellon has taken the American people into his confidence. He says federal taxes may be reduced three hundred million dollars a year without the giving of a bonus to the former service man. If the bonus is given then the taxes will be increased three hundred million dollars a year and there is no other way out of it.

Secretary Mellon is one of the ablest of American business men. He knows whereof he speaks. In war time the American soldier was promised the earth and its fullness thereof if he saved the day for the democracies of the world by beating into the earth the military machine of two emperors.

He won. Now is he going to be recognized or ignored? He fought for the wealth of America as well as for the democracy of the world. That is he thought he was fighting to make safe forever, the demogracy of the world. But according to the surface signs of the times throughout Europe, he may have been mis-

Nevertheless he is demanding a bonus. He was promised a bonus and the politicians who are office holders, are going to vote him the bonus. If they fail, four or six years from today a majority of the American congress will be composed of former service men.

Andrew W. Mellon is eminently correct. Unless the bonus is raised by a tax on the wealth of America, instead of a tax on the backs and the bellies of the people, instead of taxes being decreased, taxes will be increased several hundreds of millions of dollars a year. There is no other way out of it.

Let the children have Katrena! And plenty of it. For Katrena is pure.

It's the South's finest syrup, made true to all Southern tradition-sweetest juices from the choicest of Georgia's ribbon cane cooked in good old-fashioned open kettles.

Nothing is added---not a thing taken away. Just that pure, wholesome, delicious ribbun cane syrup--- for which the South is praised. Call your grocer. It costs no more to keep Katrena on your table.

Color Cut-outs Friendly Indian

"The story books say the Indians were enemies to the Pilgrims," said Polly Mount, "but when I wear this costume in the Tuanksgiving play 11 shall be a kind Indian girl that takes meal and meat to the stacking ones. You know there was a famine in Plymonth one year because the crops failed and so many of the company died that the men planted corn over the graves to keep the Indians from knowing how few were left,"

"Then let's have one seene in the play where you steal through the woods at night to leave a bag of food by the door of Master Winthrop, the governor, who will devide it among the people," was Sam's suggestion. He couldn't decide whether to be the governor or Miles Standish, captain of the soldiers.

When Polly appears on Thank-giving as an Indian, the audience will have to overlook the fact that she has red braids, and concentrate their attention on her levely brown costume with blue beads and headband.

Culpepper Wants 100 Musi-

With the fast Galveston Ball high with the Yellow Jackets Saturday. and with Coach Leo Smith making every preparation to accord them a healthy grid welcome, Director Culpepper of the local rooting sections aunounced this morning that he is auxious to secure a band of 100 pieces to play on the occasion.

Culpripper said that he wishes to add to the displece high school band every player in the city who will be available for the game. "Just bring your musical instrument along with you and you will be admitted at the zate to the rooting stands, and given as comfortable a sent for the clash as we can furnish you,"

A rousing pep meeting, followed by a parade of the high school band in the business section of Port Arthur will be staged sometimes this week and the buttle-cry for the game, "bent Galveston," has "trendy become a motto of the school.

Director Culpepper said every mu sician in the city is urged to attend the game, bring their musical instrument along, and help play the Yellow Jackets to victory. Coach Smith is whipping his club back into excellent trim; with a new backfield entirely, must be handed to M. A. ## There are hundreds in Port Arthur right now who should do it

There are hundreds of concerns in Port Arthur, big and little, which should be using newspaper advertising every day in the week. Some of them lack the ambition to go, others say "advertising doesn't pay," and still others

If advertising doesn't pay and it costs too much, why is so much of it used? Surely, those who advertise year in and year out are not fools! If they were they would soon to broke and there wouldn't be any advertisers-and not much business!
